

ViewPoint

Online trading, made sophisticated and simple.

Introduction

Today's traders and investors expect fast, flexible and intuitive trading technology that supports multi-asset and multi-market access in a single platform.

Managing multiple systems or switching between fragmented tools slows traders down, increases complexity and makes it harder to respond to market opportunities.

ViewPoint was designed to address this challenge by providing a secure, web-based trading and market data platform that brings trading, analysis and market information together in one interface. It combines real-time market data, advanced charting and highly configurable trading tools to support efficient decision-making.

What is it and what does it do?

ViewPoint is a web-based, multi-asset trading and market data platform that provides real-time market information and trading capability across more than 130 global markets.

It enables users to:

Trade multiple asset classes across global markets

Access real-time market data directly through a web browser

Analyse markets using advanced technical and fundamental tools

Build custom screen layouts and interconnected widgets to streamline workflow

Configure the platform to support different trading styles, from long-term investors to active day traders

ViewPoint is designed to scale, allowing brokers and platforms to tailor functionality for different user groups, with tiered access for retail, professional and active traders.
